Description

I use

PANEL = {
:top   => [:views, :spacer, :caption, :spacer, :sublets, :tray],
:bottom => [ ],
:stipple => true

in subtle.rb to have the caption centered. The width of the caption is only adjusted, when another client is focused. When a client changes its title (for example a browser window), the width remains and the caption is either cut-off on the right or empty space shows up.

After investigation I found that the panel arrangement from the default subtle.rb suffers from the same problem.
